TMAA NSW CELEBRATES NEW ERA

The Traffic Management Association of Australia New South Wales Division (TMAA NSW) welcomed a new era this week, with the appointment of TMAA NSW Secretariat Kelly Lovely.

This is the first time TMAA NSW has enlisted professional services for their secretariat function and Kelly comes highly credentialed.

TMAA NSW Chair Geoff Hogbin said he welcomed Kelly Lovely to the Division noting her outstanding understanding of the industry and the risks associated with traffic control.

“Kelly Lovely has worked as a Health & Safety professional across high-risk industries and in consulting (both across Australian and internationally) for almost 20 years. She is well networked and experienced in policy positioning, and aware of the challenges and opportunities for the Australian traffic management and traffic control industries and is dedicated to help,” he said.

“I look forward to working with Kelly to keep our members informed on state and national issues,” he said.

TMAA Board Member for New South Wales Stephen Hynes said the NSW Division was excited that Kelly would be working collaboratively with other TMAA branches and the National Office on their behalf.

“The NSW Division will increase their focus on representing the interests of the NSW Traffic Management Industry by lobbying and setting policy position with government to increase the range and quality of member’s services,” he said.
