

Throughout October, Safe Work Australia hosts a series of free online seminars that showcase the latest thinking, innovation, research and development in work health and safety.

Engage with Australian and international health and safety experts, academics and leaders through our live broadcasts and online Q&A sessions. Be part of the conversation using the hashtag #virtualWHS or on our LinkedIn page.

This year's seminars discuss good work design and safety throughout supply chains and focus on the construction and manufacturing industries.

Download a range of resources including case studies, research, and ideas to support your own work health safety activities.
